I would like to call myself “hotdog”. Dog is sensitive to its surrounding, and it is loyal to its owner. It is trustworthy when it is given task (e. g German shepherd). I am eagle to find out interesting things around me, and sensitive to my surrounding. I will notice the emotions of the people around me. I hope that I will be trustworthy and dependable to the people I loved.

I find that it is far more interesting than a Gameboy. I have a better understanding of the parametric and polar equations.
