Everyone requires a place of solace – somewhere to escape to in the midst of this bustling world. For me, such a place would be like this tropical paradise in the middle of nowhere. How utterly satisfying it would be, to be sipping my favourite ice cold 7-UP under the shade of a great old coconut tree with nary a care in the world – just me and the sand, the surf, and the sun.

I've discovered that by manipulating equations, it is amazingly possible to create many images on a graphics calculator. The process has been eye-opening and enriching.
