It is wonderful to spend some time appreciating nature, while the sun is slowly sinking under the horizon. I chose to draw the clouds in such a way that they seem still but yet floating, and the two little cats imply that this beauty can be appreciated by all beings.

This design is completed by applying my mathematical knowledge in and exposure to various kinds of graphs. I learnt how to use various useful functions of the graphic calculator like storing and recalling pictures so that graphs can be overlapped to create pictures.
