This year's theme is 'Graphic Calculator and Nature'. To me nature consists of all the natural things present in the world, before the interference of any human intervention or influence. Therefore I felt that the best way to portray this concept of nature would be to create the most instinctive /natural picture that comes to mind. And the first mental image I saw was a field of flowers away from pollution and blooming with life. While designing, I learnt that as long as I persevere, there will always be some way to achieve the effect I desire with the graphic calculator.
