What do we think when we heard the word “nature?” The first thing that comes into my mind is plants. Where do plants come from? Seeds. Then, seeds come from fruits and fruits come from flowers. I like flowers because of their attractive colors which usually are for attracting bugs to help them in pollination process. Some flowers might not be able to turn to fruit without the bugs’ interference. That is why I included some bugs in the picture. Flowers and bugs benefit each other in this way. We have to learn from them to cooperate rather than fighting.
