The word 'Fashion', to the youngsters today, signifies branded clothes and accessories. However, I decided to venture into a more medieval side of 'Fashion'.

My design shows a shield and 2 swords hung on top of a brick wall. My idea is to show that 'Fashion', which had started off ages ago, carried a different perspective. In the past, fashion, to the knights was not on clothing but on the protective accessories they carried to battle.

Through this experience, I have learnt that as we look to the future changes in fashion, we must not forget the original meaning.
