Fashion has enabled one to groom himself to be looked good and impressive. Fashion can go beyond the adoration of human beauty; it is an instrument for self-identification.

I choose this picture of a female model, as I believe that a model has an important role to play in fashion. They inspire people to pay attention to their external appearance appreciate themselves as what they are, since model has a high self-esteem.

I also learnt fashion actually reveal our personalities. Hence, we can wear the most beautiful clothes, but without a strong character, it will be the clothes who is wearing us.
