As we can see, my design includes a fuwa and five Olympic rings. Fuwas are the official mascots of the Beijing 2008 Olympic Games and this is one of the five fuwas which is called Yingying. Yingying is a Tibetan antelope. Like all antelopes, Yingying is fast and agile and can swiftly cover large area of grassland as he races across his habitat. In the picture, Yingying is running towards the five Olympic rings which imply that he is very eager to take part in Beijing Olympic Games. Actually, the main concept of my design is that people from all over the world aspire to go to Beijing and watch Beijing 2008 Olympic Games.

I learned how to turn my GC into a fun tool that allows me to draw things on the screen using mathematical ideas.
